

Reflect - Further Education

#Reflect - the contemporary framework for teaching and learning.

Reflect = reflect + act.

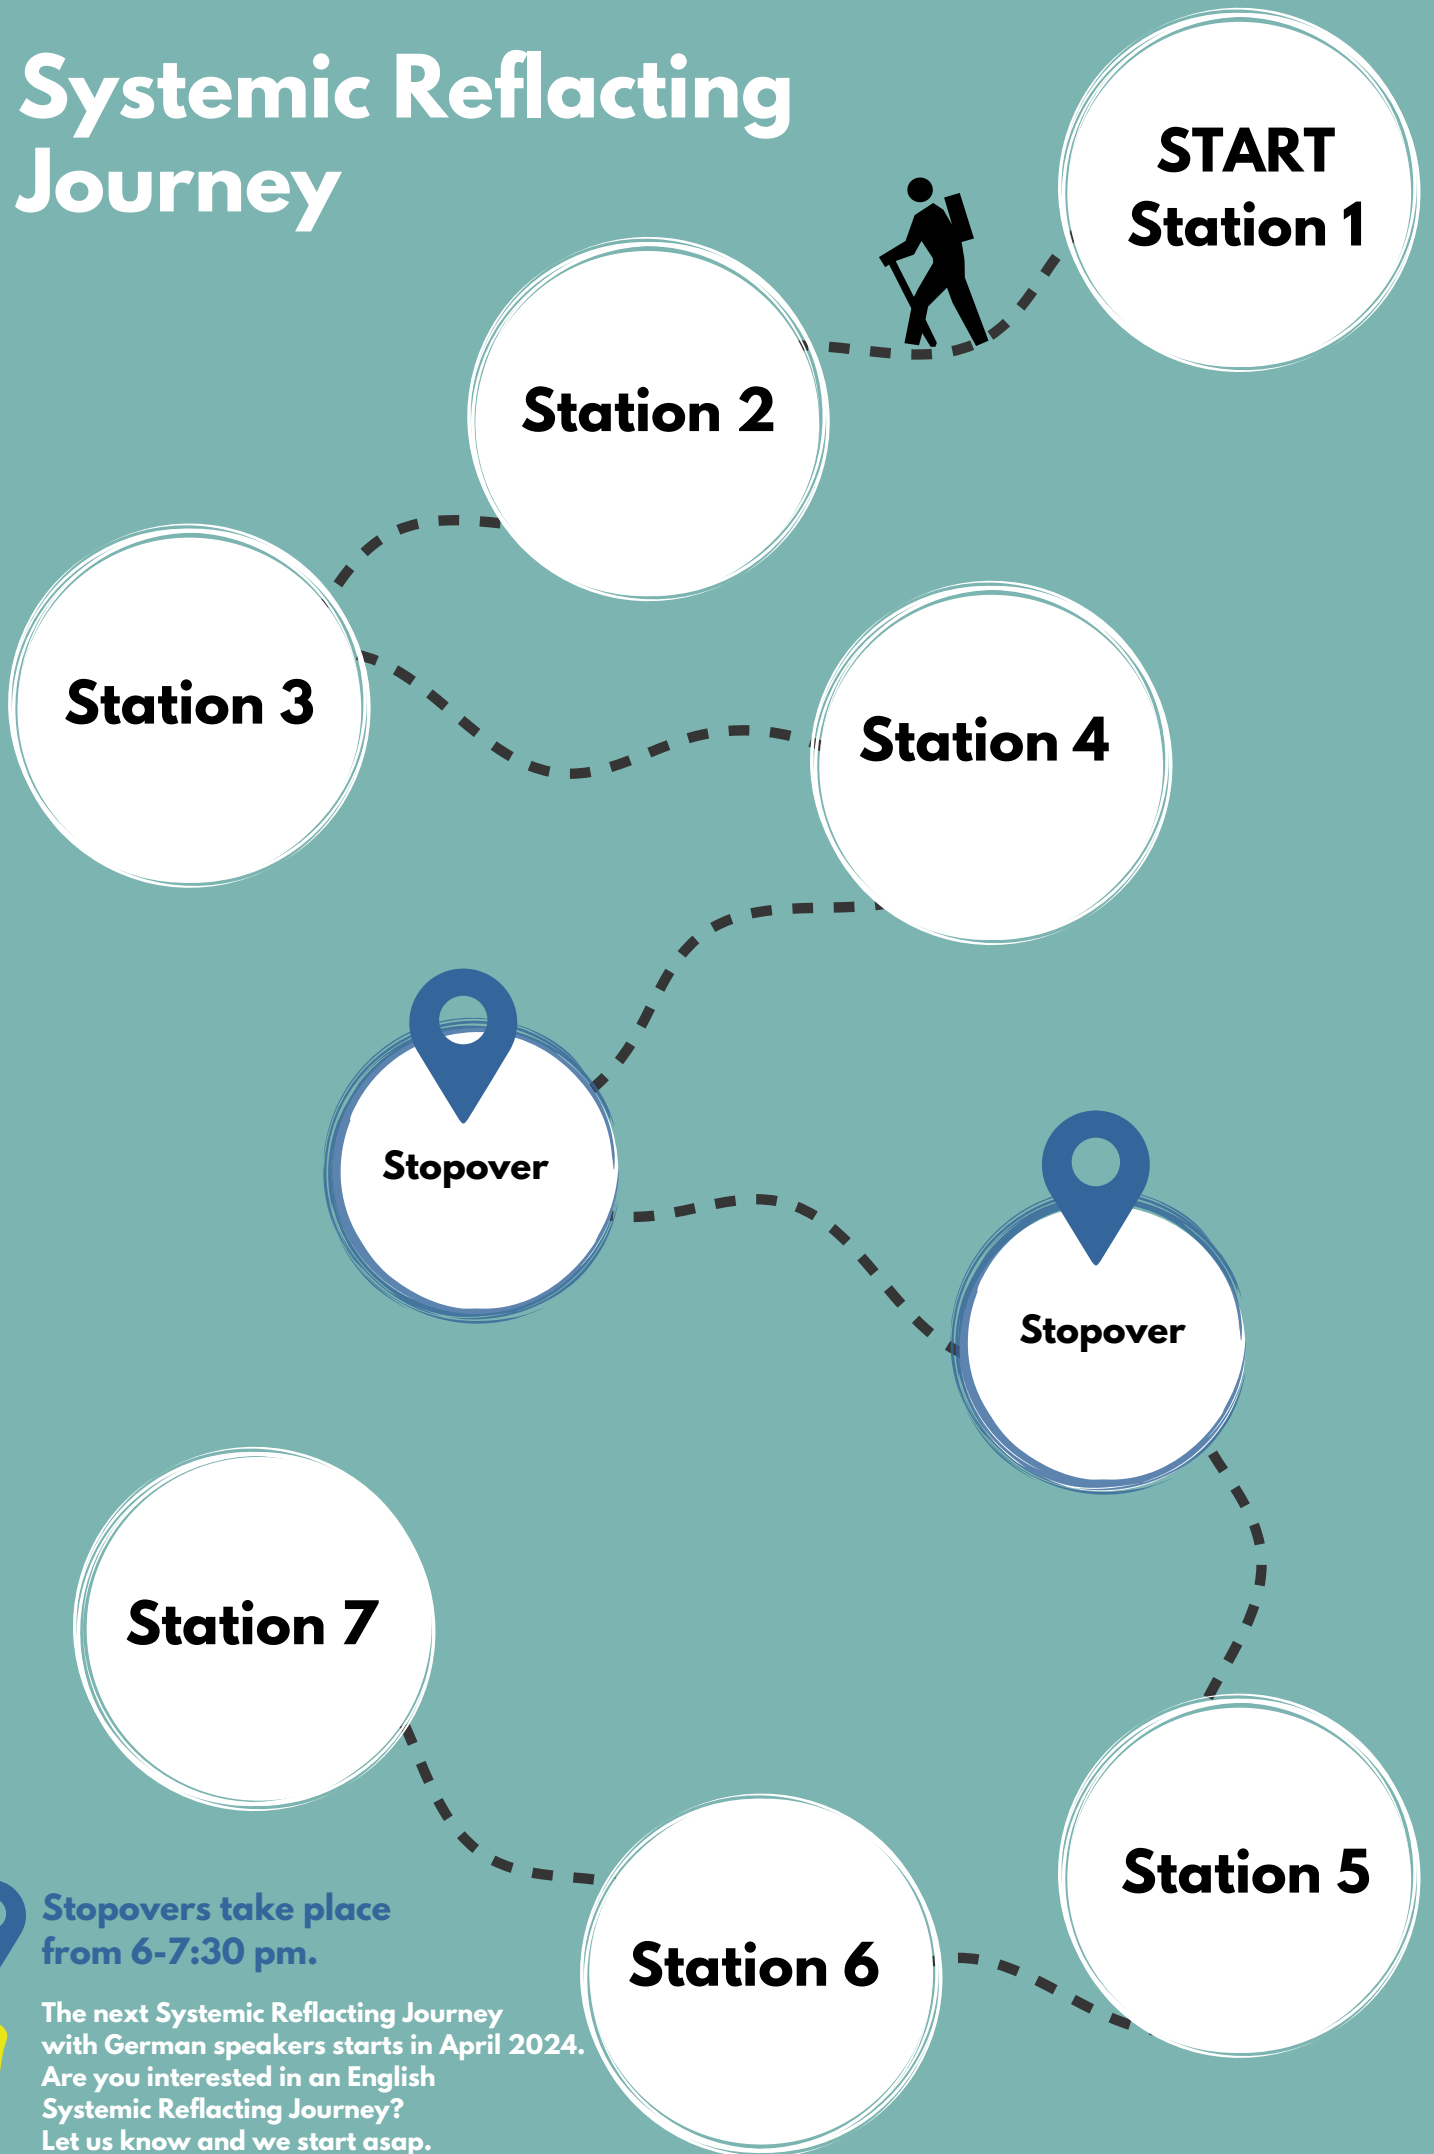

We understand learning and teaching differently. We think anything can be googled, youtubed, ChatGPTed. So, instead of telling students what to learn, reflection is more relevant than content. And... action!

Reflect is process-oriented, interdisciplinary and based on circular learning. Online and offline.

Reflect builds on the principles of systemic teaching. With the respect and focus on resources of individuals, it contributes to the sustainability of teaching institutions.

On our „Systemic Reflecting Journey“ we share our experiences and perspectives.

Systemic Reflecting Journey

Stopovers take place from 6-7:30 pm.

The next Systemic Reflecting Journey with German speakers starts in April 2024. Are you interested in an English Systemic Reflecting Journey? Let us know and we start asap.

In 2023, we went on our first Systemic Reflecting Journey. Here's what our pioneers have to say:

"Even in an online setting, we felt Astrid's and Veronika's empathic nature. They introduced us to the systemic way of thinking step by step. What a vivid, lively way to teach! Compared to studying, you permanently change the perspective between learner and teacher, which quickly leads to a great sense of community. Reflect.institute is definitely something I recommend!"

"Today, I facilitated a dialogue and was able to integrate a lot from Station 1: "bringing the topics into contact" and "invite some smoothness"! In the next contact with the team, we want to see how it feels to dance together. The feedback was great, and we managed to make real contact with most of the team."

"Overall, I was thrilled by the process-oriented attitude and experiencing and learning in immediate action. This experience differs significantly from my previous learning situations. Also, the contact design and the lively exchange causes a nice „reflecting" with each other."
